

Utah State University

DigitalCommons@USU

USU Student Folklore Fieldwork

Student Folklore Fieldwork

11-30-2018

Irish Crochet Lace Shawl

Brittany Fitzgerald

author13.writeon@gmail.com

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.usu.edu/student_folklore_all

Recommended Citation

Fitzgerald, Brittany, "Irish Crochet Lace Shawl" (2018). USU Student Folklore Fieldwork. Paper 279.
https://digitalcommons.usu.edu/student_folklore_all/279

This G8: Textiles is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Folklore Fieldwork at DigitalCommons@USU. It has been accepted for inclusion in USU Student Folklore Fieldwork by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@USU. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@usu.edu.

Myself
Logan, Utah
November 30, 2018

Title: Irish Crochet Lace Shawl
Genre: Material Culture- Textiles

Informant:

My name is Brittany Fitzgerald. I am a 19-year-old undergraduate in my third semester at Utah State University and intend to double major in English and Anthropology. I was born and raised in Davis County, Utah, and spent a year living in Livermore, California when I was 8. I was raised Mormon, in a large extended family, nearly all of whom are also active members. My favorite hobbies are handicrafts, writing, and drawing.

Context:

Irish Crochet Lace was popular during the Irish Potato Famine, as an easy and quick way to get some extra money. There are patterns for motifs and grounds that survive, and many can be found online. The motifs in my shawl are a combination of patterns found online, in pattern libraries, antique books, and patterns I made up myself.

Text:

[Images of me standing with the shawl draped over my shoulders and with my arms outstretched to show it off, front and back. Image of the shawl spread on the ground shows that it is triangular, with wide lace around the bottom edge, and several floral and abstract motifs against a mesh background.]

Texture:

I wanted to get back into crocheting, and heard about Irish crochet lace. My family has roots in Ireland, and it didn't require me to learn any new skills. I had made up my own patterns before, and from start to finish it took me about two months to make the shawl. I worked on it while I watched TV and listened to podcasts.

Brittany Fitzgerald
USU
English 2210
Professor McNeill
Fall 2018